WATERCOOLERS - ALIKE YET DIFFERENT

This collection is an example of some of the best work from the Red Wing Stoneware Co., circa 1880s. These magnificent salt glazed 5 gallon water coolers are alike but also distinctly different. The cobalt designs of the leaves and the butterfly was created at the height of the Red Wing Stoneware Co. popularity and were done by master artisans. There are three different treatments of the bung hole. The one on the far left has the hexagon with screws, the middle one does not have the hexagon bung hole and the right has the hexagon but placed at a different angle. These items are on display at the Red Wing Collectors Society Museum in the Pottery Mall.

CALLING ALL KIDS!!

It's time for KidsView at July Convention - Let's Learn About Dinnerware.

On Thursday, July 7, Mike Robinson will be back again to help the kids produce their own stoneware piece. Thursday is also the fun Kid's Only Auction.

Friday, the kids will step back in time to see what it was like to spend the day "working" at the Red Wing Pottery. We will re-create the Pottery dinnerware production line where kids will actually paint a dinnerware blank as if they were Red Wing employees on the production line. The kids will also paint their own designs on an actual Red Wing plate

From his studio, designer Charles Murphy, will talk to the sales department about popular designs and how they were sold. We have lots of fun games and activities planned so don't miss out.

See you there!

Town & Country Dinnerware: A TIMELINE OF SHAPES AND COLORS (PART 1)

By Terry and Jennifer Ogle and Larry Roschen

The Red Wing Potteries introduced the Town and Country line of dinnerware, designed by Eva Zeisel, in 1947 (see Figure 1 pictured on bottom of page). The dinnerware line was a great success for Red Wing and has since been admired by museums and collectors. Today, Town and Country dinnerware is highly sought after and is considered to be a rare find. The rarity of Town and Country has led many collectors to believe that the line was produced for a very short period of time; rumors suggest possibly as short as one year. However, the line was actually in production for several years. This article will document the time line for the various shapes and colors of Town and Country dinnerware using a collection of original documents and brochures from Red Wing Potteries.

Red Wing Potteries introduced Town and Country dinnerware with approximately 34 shapes and seven colors. The ergonomic and whimsical shapes included place setting pieces as well as marmites, casseroles, mixing bowls, cruets, soup tureens, lazy susans, condiment servers and more. Figure 2 (pictured on page 5) shows the shapes as portrayed in an original four-page brochure dated January 2, 1947. This is the earliest known documentation for the dinnerware line and the authors speculate that this is likely the first brochure for Town and Country.

According to a price list found on the back of the 1947 brochure (Figure 3 pictured on page 6), the initial colors of Town and Country were Chalk White, Dusk Blue, Sand, Metallic Brown, Chartreuse, Peach and Rust. Most shapes were available in all colors, but there are exceptions. For example, the covered casserole was not made in chalk white or metallic brown.

By January of 1950, Red Wing Potteries had introduced Forest Green and Gray to the color palette for Town and Country, and discontinued the White, Sand and Peach colors.

the color changes, the left and right-handed salad spoons, the ladle and the soup tureen were also discontinued. A price list from 1950 documents the changes (see Figure 5 pictured on page 7). There have been two versions of white glazing found on Town and Country dinnerware; one is a matte white and the other a glossy white. It is certain that Chalk White is the matte version, but the documentation shown does not indicate when the change to glossy white was made. Because Chalk White is such a hard color to find, the authors believe that the change to glossy white may have occurred within the first year and solid white pieces were discontinued entirely before the 1950 brochure was printed.

A price list dated April 20, 1953 (Figure 6 pictured on page 7) lists the same colors as the 1950 price list, and it documents the discontinuation of the coaster from the Town and Country line. A March 1, 1955 price list and color chart show no changes from the

A May 1956 letter to customers from the management of Red Wing Potteries outlined changes in availability for a number of dinnerware patterns including Town and Country (Figure 8 pictured on page 7). This letter documents the final production run for the Town and Country line. It states that Town and Country was discontinued January 1, 1956, but orders would be accepted through the calendar year for two final production runs in July and December 1956. Orders received January 1, 1957 or later would be limited to available stock. Based on this letter, December 1956 marked the final production of Town and Country. Town and Country was in production for ten years, from 1947 through the end of 1956.

Most shapes in the Town and Country dinnerware line were available for the duration of the production period. However, the soup tureen, salad spoons, ladle and coaster were discontinued early. The salad spoons, ladle and soup tureen were in production for three years, and the coaster was produced for six years. The wooden lazy susan (Figure 9 pictured on page 16) was in production for ten years, although it is still a very rare piece.

There are many pieces of Town and Country in existence that are not listed in the documentation shown in this article, including the white and peach syrups, metallic brown mixing bowl and rust condiment spoon shown in Figure 10 (pictured on page 16). The possibility exists that these items could have been included in line changes for which the authors have not found documentation, or they may have been specially ordered. The documentation shown has gaps, three years between 1947 and 1950 and again from 1950 to 1953. Most likely the introduction of gloss white appears somewhere in these gaps, perhaps along with other line changes unknown to us at this time.

This article documents the timeline for the shapes and colors of Town and Country dinnerware using a collection of vintage documents and brochures from Red Wing Potteries. The documentation shown explains why some Town and Country colors and pieces are harder to find than others, but none of it explains why Town and Country pieces were made in the Quartette colors, typically found on the Concord shape. In Part 2 of this article, to be published in the next issue of the RWCS newsletter, the authors will document the non-original colors of Town and Country dinnerware.

The authors are interested in finding original documentation to fill the gaps between 1947-1950 and 1950-1953. WELCOME TO MARK COLLINS AS INTERIM TREASURER RWCS

Mark Collins has agreed to and was voted by the RWCS Board of Directors as the Interim Treasurer of the Society. Mark hails from Sioux Falls, South Dakota. He has been a member of the RWCS since 1999, primarily collects stoneware and art pottery. He also collects Cahoy Pottery which comes from his home area in Tripp County South Dakota. Professionally, Mark is an attorney who has practiced law for the past 15 years and has been an Assistant Attorney General since 1995. Currently he works throughout South Dakota prosecuting crimes involving drugs and violent crimes.

Mark considered Jerry Schleich his mentor as he started acquiring Red Wing. They had their common interest in both Red Wing and in their careers as attorneys. He holds his memories of Jerry in high regard.

Please join me in welcoming Mark to the RWCS Board of Directors. Sue Jones Tagliapietra

THE RED WING POTTERIES, INC.

Distinctive Dinner Ware - Art Pottery Vases - Flower Pots

F. D. RICHARDSON, PRESIDENT A. M. KUBER, JR., VICE PRESIDENT

RED WING, MINNESOTA

May 14, 1956

IMPORTANT PATTERN INFORMATION

We are listing below complete information on the availability of patterns that are to be or have been discontinued.

Effective January 1st, 1957, the following patterns will be discontinued: Tweed Tex, Magnolia, Willow Wind Pink, Willow Wind Turquoise, Contemporary White and Kermis.

All orders received after January 1st, 1957, will be accepted subject to available stock as no further production will be made after that date.

The Iris, Spring Song, Midnight Rose, Delta Blue, Town & Country and Quartette patterns were all discontinued January 1st, 1956. Orders will be accepted for all pieces in the above patterns during 1956. However there may be a delay in shipment of your order. Orders will be accumulated and production runs will be made in July and December. After January 1st, 1957, orders will be accepted subject to available stock only.

The following patterns were discontinued as of January 1st, 1955: Lexington, Fruit, Lantern, Fantasy and Blossom Time. A final production run on the above patterns will be made in July. Orders will be accepted for any or all items in the above patterns through June 15th for late July or early August delivery. Orders received after June 15th, 1956, will be accepted subject to available stock.

There will be no further production runs on patterns discontinued prior to January 1st, 1954, and orders will be accepted subject to available stock only.

The fact that we are in a highly stylized business resulting in a constant demand for new patterns makes it necessary that we discontinue patterns as new ones are produced.

Kindly advise should you have any questions relative to any of the above information.

Yours truly,

THE RED WING POTTERIES, INC.

CLUB NEWS

from the

Education Manager

DIANA BAILEY

This year, Convention education will include an exciting new feature! A working potter will be providing demonstrations of "throwing" pieces on a wheel. He will be at work in the high school cafeteria from 11:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. on Friday. You will have a first hand opportunity to observe pieces coming to life from a clump of clay, much like the potters of Red Wing did over and over again for so many years.

Education sessions will include three orientation sessions for first time Convention attendees! These will be held on Thursday at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. and again on Friday at 9 a.m. in room H215.

Thursday's keynote address will be presented by Jewell Peterson, Larry Roschen, Gary Tefft and John Tremble. Each of these individuals has been instrumental at different points in time during the history of the RWCS in the production of the RWCS commemoratives. They will provide a historical perspective on the selection and production of our commemoratives over the years.

Education seminars will be held on Friday at 10 a.m. - 11:50 a.m. and from 12:30 p.m. - 3:20 p.m.

WHAT'S HAPPENING AT YOUR MUSEUM?

The Red Wing Collectors Society Foundation is an unpaid, totally volunteer group interested in developing the Red Wing Museum that preserves the history of the pottery industry in Red Wing. We are extraordinarily appreciative of the help and support that we have received from the RWCS Chapters as we expand the Museum.

The brushed ware display has been removed. The Gopher Chapter of the RWCS has taken the opportunity to develop their display in the rotating diorama at the Museum. The Gopher Chapter display will be in place for one year. Look for their display when you are in Red Wing for summer Convention or during one of your visits to Red Wing in the next few months.

Donors from the Nebraska Chapter have been particularly generous. The Nebraska Chapter has their copper wing on the Museum wall. In addition, Jerry and Louise Schleich, founders of the Schleich Red Wing Pottery Museum in Lincoln, donated many display cabinets to the Foundation Museum. Nebraskans Rex and Pat Lucke are strong believers in preserving important history and have been generous donors to the Foundation.

The Iowa Chapter has always had an interesting and educational Newsletter. The Iowa Chapter of Red Wing Collectors featured a wonderful article, "Earning Your Wings" by Corrinne Reed. The article focused on levels of donation to the Red Wing Collectors Society Foundation in their Newsletter and the Iowa Chapter members who have been involved. In addition, the Iowa

Chapter has given nearly $1500 worth of donations and is on their way to earning their silver wing on the Museum wall.

The Cannon Valley Chapter led by Connie Kolberg and Wayne Bell invited the Foundation Board to their Holiday Party. What a great opportunity to "catch up" with fellow Red Wing collectors over a great meal! Also thank you to the Cannon Valley Chapter for their $250 donation to the Society. Cannon Valley members Nancy and Dick Houghton have donated some summer auction spaces for Foundation Development. Foundation Board members are donating items from their personal collections to raise additional funds for the Museum. The Cannon Valley Chapter has earned their copper wing that should be on display by Convention time.

The Golden State Chapter has earned their copper wing with a $500 donation in memory of Jerry Schleich. Also the Southwest Redwingers and the Puget Sound Chapter have both made significant donations to the Memorial Fund of Jerry Schleich.

The Foundation Board are volunteers who freely donate of their money, time, and effort. Board members even "chip in" for the pizza that we have for lunch at our all day quarterly meetings. We are delighted with the progress of the Red Wing Museum and look forward to more expansions to leave lasting memories of the pottery industry in Red Wing.

Again thank you to the Chapters for your donations and support of this inspired undertaking!

Ron Linde, President
RWCS Foundation

BOOK COMMEMORATING THE 30TH ANNIVERSARY OF RWCS

RWCS and Turner Publishing continue to work on gathering information to include in the 30th Anniversary of the RWCS Book. Two events are coming up:

- Within the next few weeks the RWCS will send you a brochure that has both information about the book and a place for you to write and send in any stories and or pictures that you would like to have included in the book. Maybe you have a favorite piece of Red Wing with a great story of how you were about to acquire it or maybe you have a story about some event that happened at one of the Conventions. It is also fun to let others know why it is your favorite piece.

- A representative of Turner Publishing will be at this year's Convention to take pictures of your favorite Red Wing piece and will write down your story. A room has been set aside for all day on Thursday and Friday of Convention. The Convention schedule will indicate the location of the room and the times it is open.

I want to stress that this book is about us, the RWCS, the members and the products we collect. It is not a price guide. We have control over the quality of the content because they are our stories that we love to tell and others love to listen to. Please let me know if you have any questions.

Sue Jones Tagliapietra

Kay Wilshusen submitted her resignation effective May 13, 2005. Kay was the first Business Manager/Convention Manager of the RWCS and worked for the Society for eight years.

The Board will recruit applicants for the position within the very near future. In the meantime the functions of Business/Convention Manager will be handled through existing and temporary staffing. Marcia Hislop will continue to answer and respond to any membership questions.

The Business Office hours will now be 10-5, Monday-Friday.

Updates will be posted on the website and in future newsletters.

We have added several new features to this event which will include stoneware identification by Mark Cellotti. You are encouraged to bring a piece or picture of a piece of your stoneware, either marked or unmarked, for which you would like identification and information, and Mark will help you to become a stoneware sleuth!

From a personal and historical perspective, we are very pleased to have in our company Bernie Banet on the Life and Times of his aunt, Belle Kogan. This year, we are adding a "Master's" class to education. This class, presented by Terry Moe, Larry Roschen and John Sagat, will incorporate two consecutive sessions rather than two separate sessions. As you choose this class, you will have the opportunity to spend two hours with these knowledgeable collectors discussing Red Wing's earliest dinnerware patterns. Larry will lead discussion of primary versus secondary information sources with information on the Lexington and Harvest patterns as well as the Fruit/Salad set, Labriego/Hospitality Ware and Party Ware. John will present detailed information about the four Provincial patterns, and Terry will provide in depth information and discussion regarding Gypsy Trail. Other notable education sessions will include Kent Williamson on "Pre-Fifties Red Wing Cookie Jars", "Extinct Animals of North Dakota and Minnesota" by the famous collectors, Con and Sandy Short, "Red Wing 101" by Paul Wichert, Terry Speedy on "Red Wing Mini Jugs", Steve Showers with his ever changing and fascinating display of "Dump Finds", Jewell Peterson on "Writing Articles for the RWCS Newsletter", and Dennis Nygaard with the latest information on "Dump Dig." Helen Bell will repeat her famous narrative on the "Memories of a Potter's Daughter". Last, but not least, Ron Linde will be accompanied by other members of the RWCS Foundation to bring you the latest news on the Foundation.

Don't miss out on attending these sessions. There may be additional surprises in store for you! Education events are held in the H Pod of the Red Wing High School – second floor and above the commemorative distribution area. We look forward to seeing you at Convention.
